PRESIDENT PUSHES TENNESSEE VALLEY PROPOSAL

PA NEW OBSERVES

This week brings an Easter vacation for New Castle's public school students.

The last reminder of the miniature golf craze that swept the country several years ago, is being removed from a site at the end of Highland avenue.

The spring sun yesterday drew oil and tar to the surface of the secondary roads, and some of them were quite oily. It was the first time this spring that the heat of the sun was noticeable.

Auto touring seemed to take a big spurt yesterday. There was greatly increased traffic on the highways.

Residents of other states are starting their tours early this year it would appear. Pa New saw cars carrying licenses from California, New York, Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio and several other states in a brief trip in this district yesterday.

More trees are being planted along the Perry highway, north of Harlansburg. The new trees are much more developed than those placed in the original road of remembrance, and will soon make quite an impressive appearance.

Work is being pushed steadily on the construction of the two new bridges at Wittenburg. Concrete is being poured in the arches of the larger bridge.

There are a couple of dilapidated buildings on the highway at Rose Point that should be torn down. They mar the beauty of this picturesque little village for hundreds of motorists who travel the Butler road.

There must have been an airplane flight or some other attraction out in the North Grange, Jacksville district on Sunday afternoon. Pa New saw quite a crowd of citizens gathered along the road, at one of the fields, and a few moments later saw a plane circling overhead.

Pastors in New Castle churches made emphatic mention in the services on Sunday of the letters received from Governor Pinchot urging pleas to representatives in the legislature to take action on the matter of providing relief for the needy of the state at once.

Local golfers got in their first lick yesterday, the weather being ideal. The ground is still pretty soft for good golfing, however, the players reported, and a few days of nice warm sunshine and wind is needed to put the courses in shape.

Yesterday was Appomattox Day, the anniversary of Lee's surrender which marked the close of the Civil War. Older residents recall that years ago, this date was the occasion of big celebrations in this city, but in late years, its observance has not been extensive.

Workmen are engaged in repairing the paving on East Washington street. Work has been started at the city line near Cascade Park. Indications are that the repaving is to be repaired in a thorough manner, as bricks are being lifted for spaces of fifteen to twenty feet at a stretch and relaid.

Once every year New Castle and Lawrence county's best musicians get a chance to match their talent with the cream of artists from other towns in six Western Pennsylvania counties, with the coveted prize the right to compete in a state contest later. At Erie this competition occurs tomorrow; New Castle and the county had their representatives prepared for it today. In recent years the choice honors have been shared—the past record gives Pa New more confidence in the exceptional groups this year! Whatever the outcome, we'll know the students gave of their best.

Roosevelt Seeks Power To Proceed At Muscle Shoals

Seeks To Make Vast Improvements In Tennessee Valley

COVE CREEK DAM FIRST PROPOSAL

Roosevelt Sends Message To Congress Asking Authority For Plan

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Roosevelt today asked congress for authority to make a vast laboratory out of the Tennessee valley in which he proposes to undertake one of the most unique experiments in social and economic realignment ever attempted in American history.

In a special message, the executive requested creation of a Tennessee valley authority—"a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise."

The Roosevelt experiment contemplates (1) Federal operation of Muscle Shoals, (2) Construction of a dam in Cove Creek, (3) Transmission and distribution of heat, power and electricity, (4) Flood control, (5) Soil erosion, (6) afforestation, (7) Elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands and (8) Distribution and diversification of industry.

The first step in the Tennessee valley program probably would be construction of the Cove Creek (Continued On Page Six) HARRISBURG, April 10.—The legislature's general appropriation bill today faced the prospect of being forced into battle on constitutional grounds.

Already faced with a great hue and cry of protest because of the elimination of four teachers colleges and two state hospitals, the bill is now confronted with the question of its legality and the contention that the governor could not sign it without violating the constitution. ABOARD U. S. S. PORTLAND, April 10.—Grimsly determined to find the wreck of the naval dirigible Akron, even if it takes all summer, a fleet of surface ships and airplanes of the U. S. navy today began the seventh day of the long and weary search.

A score of swift seaplanes and amphibians from the naval flying fields at Norfolk, Anacostia and Philadelphia roared out to sea at the crack of dawn to continue the search for bodies and wreckage, under the direction of Captain Leary of the U. ACCUSES GOVERNOR OF AIDING DRYS

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 10.—Accusing Gov. Gifford Pinchot of using his veto power to aid the dry cause, Senator John J. McClure, Delaware indicated strongly today that he would attempt to have the legislature override the governor's veto of his constitutional convention bill.

McClure disputed the governor's contention that the bill's provisions for election of 51 delegates to act on proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment was unfair. The election of one delegate from each congressional district and 17 at large would have each person represent (Continued On Page Two)

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 10.—This Roosevelt knows his human nature. People had been plead with not to hoard. Laws had been passed to stop it. But when Roosevelt said "Let 'em buy beer," the money came out of hoarding in a high tide.

Why, out here the first ten thousand cases of beer sold was paid for with silver dollars worn so thin they were pasted together like a dollar bill.

Every town, of course, run out of beer Friday, but Beverly Hills. (Always unique and extraordinary.) They were the first town to run out of pretzels.

Very little intoxication over the country, and what there was was caused by people using gin as a chaser.

Will Speed Up Recruiting For Forest Camps

Hope To Have 250,000 Men At Work In Forest By May 15

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 10.—Plans were under way today to place selection of unemployed men for forest camps under President Roosevelt's reforestation plan on a nationwide basis.

Robert Fechner, directed general of the plan, said he was disappointed at the slow pace in enrolling men only 2,607 from six cities having entered army camps for two weeks training before they are detailed to the forests.

New York, with an initial quota of 7,500 has sent 1,102 to camp. Philadelphia has sent 1,000. Newark 254. Baltimore, 165. Pittsburgh, 60. Washington, 26.

"I am not at all satisfied with this speed," he declared. He said he hoped 250,000 men would be in army camps by May 15. In the meantime Fechner and his aides are having group conferences with the relief workers from all parts of the country.

The administration, it was learned, is considering a plan for purchasing state and privately owned forest and eroded lands which are in poor condition not to exceed $150 per acre. Work camps would be set up in these in addition to the national forest camps.

Report Pinchot And Democrats Agree On Beer Control Bill

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 10.—Democrats in the General Assembly were reported today to have reached an agreement with Gov. Gifford Pinchot on a beer control bill.

The reputed understanding, however, represents a concession by the governor. He is understood to have consented to the appointment of a non-partisan commission to supervise licensing and taxing and to reduce his proposed tax of $248 a barrel. His own bill provides for licensing by the State Department of Revenue.

Road Is Rocky
While the reputed understanding between administration and Democrats may be politically significant, it is no indication that a bill carrying their wishes will go through. If the senate, controlled by the Republican state organization, adopts a "stand pat" attitude the Pinchot-Democratic bill could be killed in the upper branch and result in WASHINGTON, April 10.—The thorny question of inter-governmental debts—specifically the $11,000,000,000 that Europe owes the American treasury—has been shoved temporarily into the background as statesmen of eleven nations prepare to converge upon Washington for a series of epochal conferences on the world's economic ailments.

But Neither Is Coming With Authority To Commit Their Governments

Will Discuss Issues With President Roosevelt In Washington Soon

(International News Service)

The prime minister of Great Britain and a former of France today received cabinet authorization to proceed to Washington shortly for a conference on economic problems with President Roosevelt.

But both were told they would be obliged to act as individuals—emissaries instead of plenipotentiaries—without the power to commit their respective governments to definite undertakings.

Premier MacDonald of Great Britain was specifically enjoined by his cabinet from "signing on the dotted line."

Former Premier Herriot of France, staunch proponent of debt payment, was told he must act as a private citizen. He will be empowered to talk, converse and exchange opinions—but not to make any promises.

Seek Method Of Giving Relief

Leaders Of Both Political Parties Confer With Governor Pinchot

COUNTY BOARDS RUNNING SHORT

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 10.—Denied additional federal loans until some definite program of raising state relief funds is agreed upon, leaders of both political parties and members of the State Emergency Relief Board conferred with Gov. Gifford Pinchot here today.

Some methods must be worked out to acquire funds for aiding the needy and unemployed immediately. The governor estimates some county boards will run short of money late this week.

Grover C. Talbot, speaker of the house and five other leaders of the Republican organization have agreed to appropriate the money necessary to finance the relief program until June 1 from the $14,000,000 recently received as inheritance taxes from the estate of John T. Dorrance. The money has been paid into the general fund.

When the assembly resumes tonight, beginning its fifteenth week, it will face every major controversial subject that appeared since the session began in January, from Sunday baseball to unemployment relief. Only one bill in this classification has been sent to the governor and that is now back in the assembly's lap with a veto—the McClure constitutional convention bill.

COUNTY MILK PRODUCERS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Dairymen Claim Bankruptcy Is Around Corner

Can't Stay In Business Producing Milk Away Below Cost Of Production

MEETING IS HELD AT COURT HOUSE

Declaring that bankruptcy is staring many dairymen in the face unless they are able to get a better price for their milk, H. E. Beatty, president of the Western Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, made a strong plea for the organization of a one hundred percent producers' association, at a meeting of dairymen held at the court house on Saturday afternoon.

President Beatty declared that milk is being sold away below cost of production, and that it is only a matter of time until dairymen will have to give away their farms. As it is now a large percentage of them are unable to pay their taxes. "It is absolutely impossible to produce milk at around seven cents a gallon and continue in business," he said. The price mentioned is about what the dairymen are getting at present.

To Include Producers Only. In accordance with the suggestion of the president the meeting passed a resolution, that the organization known as the Lawrence County Chapter of the Western Pennsylvania Milk Producers Association be made 100 per cent producers. It is claimed that the old organization, known as the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Association, has been composed of both producers and dealers, and that, therefore, the producers have been unable to derive any benefit from the organization.

The meeting also passed a resolution to the effect that the sales price of milk should be based on the cost of production. At present cost does not seem to enter into the dairymen's business. He has practically no say in the price of milk, the price for this district being set by the Co-operative Sales Association. Since the organization of the new association known as the Western Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association was started overtures have been made by the Co-operative Sales Association for a consolidation of the two organizations. The Co-operative Sales Association, which has been in existence 16 years, has offered to increase the number of persons on the board of directors and give the producers a fair representation. There was some discussion of this proposition at the meeting, but the principal objection seemed to be that there are many former members of the Co-operative Sales Association, who have withdrawn. They say they will not join it again because they never received any benefits.

The Western Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association has been in process of organization for some time, but its progress seems to be slow. There are about seventeen counties in this end of the state and eastern Ohio, which are being organized. As the matter now stands it is uncertain whether the new organization can be made 100 per cent producers, or whether some plan of consolidation will be worked out with the Co-operative Company. One thing appears to be certain and that is that the dairymen cannot go on producing milk below cost, and continue in business.

Chairman Beatty appointed a committee, consisting of J. S. McCready, J. B. Shearer and Doris Fulkman to push the work of securing members in Lawrence county. It is hoped that every milk producer will join the organization, as only by unity of action can the producers secure any material benefit.

of nature lovers for the first time this year on Sunday. In a few more weeks the budding leaves and flowers will give the place more magnetic power.

It's a far cry from now until Christmas, but if the Veterans of Foreign Wars were offered second hand toys for their Toy Shop activities next December there's little chance of them refusing the gifts. It's during the housecleaning season that dust-covered toys come to light. Next Christmas some worthy child would receive them completely repaired if broken, and painted if they're a bit dull.

A New Castle resident, back from a week end visit to the glass manufacturing region around Marienville and Knox, Pa., in the deer hunting country, reported that bottle factories are operating at full capacity in an attempt to fill stacks of brewery orders. "Not a one, he said, is operating at less than 100 per cent. And still, in spite of it all, many of them had less men employed last week than they did before—it's simply because the brewery firms anxiously get the bottles, want the orders filled without delay, and to eliminate that delay they've abandoned the usual crating system and are piling bottles over each other in box cars. How long they'll eliminate the "crater" jobs isn't known.

Day dreams may be day dreams but in spite of that fact many a Lawrence county is hoping that in the next few years he can retire to the Pymatung region for a restful week end—weather such as Sunday brought does a lot to revive those hopes!

DEBT QUESTION IN BACKGROUND AT CONFERENCE

it is evident that other matters are engaging more of the Roosevelt administration's attention.

Mystery About Debts For the time being, at least, something of a mystery enshrouds the administration's intentions concerning the debts. There has been no official indication as yet that President Roosevelt intends to ask congress to postpone the installments due on June 15 next, although London newspapers have persistently reported he would do so. These reports have been given neither denial or confirmation in administration quarters.

Instead, the administration has been talking of other things—of reciprocal tariff agreements, of the destruction of other artificial trade barriers between nations, of the improvement of silver through international agreement, of disarmament, of the possibility of reduced wheat production by international agreement, of governmental ship subsidies—in fact almost everything and anything except the debts.

Four Big Debtors

The fact that of the eleven nations invited to send representatives to Washington thus far, only four, Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany, are indebted to the United States treasury, has contributed to shoving of the question into the background. Germany's indebtedness to the United States is relatively small. It arises out of the Rhine occupation and settlements of the mixed claims commission. As for the rest, Japan, China, Canada, Mexico, and the ABC powers of South America, the Argentine, Brazil and Chile, they have little or no interest in the debts born of the World War, except insofar as they affect international economic conditions, and their own private debts to American interests.

Plans Being Laid

Secretary of State Hull has been at particular pains to emphasize that the primary purpose of the Washington discussions is to reverse the whole trend of economic nationalism which has grown up in the past. In his opinion, at least, the reversal of this trend, the lowering of tariff barriers, and the elimination of other artificial means of trade restrictions, means more to the world at large than settlement of inter-governmental debts of wartime origin.

MacDonald is expected in Washington next week. He will be followed by M. Herriot of France, and by Dr. Hans Luther, newly appointed German ambassador to the United States. Italy has yet to announce the identity of her envoy.

Richard B. Bennett, conservative prime minister of Canada, and the man who built a retaliatory tariff wall against American products, is reported planning to come to Washington soon after MacDonald's visit.

APPROPRIATION BILL FACES LEGAL BATTLE

tion and thus laying himself open to technical charges.

Salaries Slashed

The difficulty centers around the fact that the amounts allowed for salaries of elective officers of the commonwealth have been slashed, whereas the constitution specifically states that their compensation may not be reduced during the terms for which they have been elected. Gov. Gifford Pinchot, for instance, was elected at a time when the law provided the salary of the office shall be $18,000 annually. Under the constitution, that salary may not be cut while he is in office. Agreeable to the provisions of the constitution, no bill has been introduced to cut the governor's salary during the next two years. Nevertheless, the financial equivalent of it is found in the general appropriation bill because it sets aside only $15,000 for his salary.

Cut Of $3,000 If the bill became law he could collect no more than $15,000. The treasury would have no authority to pay him more.

It is contended, therefore, that his signature on the general bill would be a technical violation, or he would thus be condoning a violation of the constitution.

The reduced salary appropriations are based on the Howell resolution which asks the officials to take the cut or turn back part of their salaries. The measure is not proposed as a law. It has passed the senate and is now before the house.

What applies to the governor, who has agreed to take a salary cut, also applies to the state treasurer, auditor general, secretary of internal affairs, and judges of the supreme, superior, and common pleas courts.

Fight Is Planned

The general appropriations bill, which is the financial set-up for the operation of the state government for the two years beginning June 1, is in a position on the calendar to be passed finally by the house tonight. Because of the impending controversy it may be put over for a special order of business at a specified hour tomorrow.

If those who plan to fight the measure on constitutional grounds win their fight, the result will be an increase in the total amount set aside in the bill to meet these technical objections, although the amount of expenditure actually will be no greater. The effect will be to reduce the aggregate economies which the appropriations committee, on the face of totals, appears to have made since the governor transmitted his budget.

SUPREME COURT REVERSES SHARON TA DECISION

council in its calculations discounted the usual proportion of delinquent taxes from its estimated receipts.

Justice John W. Kephart dissented and filed a separate opinion. In its decision, the court laid down a rule that city officials are within their rights in so acting when fixing the tax rate. The suit was filed by several taxpayers representing the Sharon real estate owners association against Mayor J. Fred Thomas and other city officials. Mayor Thomas lost his suit in the court below and the appeal was taken and heard in record time by the supreme court.

Costs of the appeal were placed on John Fitzpatrick and the other plaintiffs. The supreme court ruled that municipal authorities can under the statutes use their own discretion as to what the actual receipts will be and what tax must be imposed to enable the municipality to collect a sum sufficient fully to meet the aggregate amount of the estimated expenses for the fiscal year. "Admittedly they so acted in the present instance," Justice Simpson found.

WILL ATTEMPT TO OVERRIDE VETO ON CONVENTION BILL

198,000 persons at the convention, McClure stated.

Plan Opposed

The election of delegates by senatorial districts, as suggested by Governor Pinchot, would result in an unequal representation, the Senator stated, because of the inequality of the apportionment. In some instances two delegates would represent 400,000 persons and in others only 96,000.

A two-thirds vote in both houses would be necessary to override the veto. The senate passed the bill 35 to 15 and the house vote was 132 to 67. Thirty-four of the upper branch's votes and six additional house votes would be necessary to override, but the total affirmative votes on the original roll call must also be retained.

That was the threat hurled today by Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned to die on the gallows here April 21 for the sensational "double trunk murders" of Agnes Anne Lerol and Hedvig Samuelson.

The renewed threat to kill herself followed her attempt to commit suicide yesterday by swallowing a double edged razor blade.

MacDONALD AND HERRIOTT WILL DISCUSS PROBLEMS

he will be enjoined from putting any promises on paper.

The cabinet is determined that the meeting in Washington be in effect "a conversation without specific negotiation."

It was agreed that MacDonald should call 10 Downing street on the trans-Atlantic telephone every day and keep Stanley Baldwin, who will act as Prime Minister in his absence, fully informed of all developments. Baldwin, in exchange, will advise the Premier of current British political opinion and developments.

Only As Emissary

It might be said, therefore, that MacDonald is going to Washington as emissary rather than plenipotentiary. His discretionary powers will be very largely restricted. The conferences with his ministers disclosed their decided disinclination toward having him return from Washington with any sort of a pact signed, sealed and packed in a brief-case under his arm.

By WILLIAM PARKER International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, April 10.—Acting as a private citizen, without authority to commit the government of France to any specific undertakings, former Premier Edouard Herriot will leave for Washington within a week for a conference with President Roosevelt.

Announcement of Herriot's definite appointment as French delegate to the parlays proposed by Mr. Roosevelt as a forerunner of the world economic conference was made in a communique issued this afternoon after a meeting of the council of ministers.

The communique itself was brief and confined itself to formal announcement of Herriot's mission.

To Exchange Opinions

But spokesmen highly placed in French government circles augmented it with the positive statement that Herriot would function in Washington merely as an individual and not as a plenipotentiary acting for the government of the Republic. He will have governmental authority to confer and converse and to exchange opinions.

But he will not be authorized to make any definite decisions or to give concrete replies to any questions affecting such problems as the foreign debt to the United States, which the chamber of deputies voted to "defer" when it fell due on December 15 last.

Staunch Agitation

These stipulations were believed to have been imposed because of Herriot's staunch agitation in favor of payment of the debt. He was forced to resign as Premier owing to his insistence in this regard, and since his return to parliamentary life has continued to whack away at the necessity for France to "uphold her honor" by making the defaulted payment.

Herriot's sailing date has not yet been decided. He may depart aboard the Berengaria, which would give him an opportunity for advance conversations with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, who has already booked passage aboard that vessel. Or he may wait a day or two and sail on the French liner Ile De France.

Deaths of the Day

Louis S. Hoon

Louis S. Hoon, veteran city employee, and one of the best known and most respected men of the city, died Sunday, April 9, at 9:40 a. m. in the New Castle hospital following an illness of six months due to complications. Although the city had been known to many for some time, his death came as a shock to not only his more intimate friends, but to the people of the city in general, with whom he was a general favorite.

At the time of his death and for 16 years prior, he had been connected with the health department of the city in the capacity of sanitary police officer or inspector. He was the most efficient in this service for the people of the city and worked faithfully at all times in the performance of his duties. In the performance of his duties he was at all times most diligent in the enforcement of health regulations, but such was his kindly disposition that he gained the respect and love of those with whom he came in contact.

Fearless in the face of disease, at the time of the influenza epidemic during the World War, he worked incessantly among the victims of that dread disease, in spite of the danger to which he was exposed.

He also served as a deputy sheriff for 15 years and as a page in the House of Representatives in 1917.

Mr. Hoon was born in Prospect, Pa., February 22, 1868, the son of Mrs. Laura Woods, and was 45 years of age. He was married to Ethel M. Gere, who survives him.

He was a member of the First Christian church, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Sons of Union Veterans and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Ethel M. Gere Hoon, he leaves the following children: Clyde Hoon of Youngstown, O.; William Edwin, Lauretta Grace, Byron Wayne and Paul James Hoon, at home, and one brother, Glenn C., at Catawissa, Pa. His mother, Mrs. Laura Woods, preceded him in death about six years ago, and a daughter, Mary Lou, died in December, 1930.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, April 12, at 2:30 p. m. in the First Christian church with Dr. C. B. Winger, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, and Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, in charge. Interment will be made in Oak Park cemetery.

FAITH—

As we see a few corporations who do not depend on this community for their business, and some other concerns, whose products the people have to use regardless of price or service as the law gives them a monopoly, trying to compel the business man who does depend wholly on this community for his income, to use a time that eighty percent of the people do not want, and which drives business to other towns, as well as being a detriment to the mothers, school children and a few men that are still working.

We wonder if there are not still a few business men and a Church or two that have back bone enough to stand for their right and live up to the law, and help New Castle save what little business we still enjoy.

HAVE YOU THE UTMOST FAITH IN YOUR FUNERAL DIRECTOR.

WHITE SHRINE HAS PUBLIC INSTALLATION

Impressive and spectacular was the public installation held in the Cathedral, April 6 by the Martha Shrine No. 14 of the White Shrine of Jerusalem. Mrs. Frances Ebert of Pittsburgh presided over the ceremonies.

Beautiful floral decorations and palms embanked the East lodge room where the activities took place. Mrs. Ruth Boyd was the retiring worthy high priestess and Mrs. Harriet Sweezy was installed as the incoming presiding officer.

A very pleasant musical program in charge of Mrs. Clinton Keagy was enthusiastically received when the following talented artists rendered solos: Miss Elizabeth Harvard, vocal selection; Miss Ruth Drescher, vocal numbers; Mrs. Elsa Von Molke Emery, violin solos and Bill Fletcher, vocal numbers. Accompanists were Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fleming, Mrs. Anna Pyle and Mrs. Kathryn Nessel Allen.

A clever trick was carried out by Mesdames Anna Rowland, Dorothy Stoddard and Bertha Beahm in presenting officers with gifts, another feature on the program.

Guests were present from Cleveland, O., Youngstown, O., Pittsburgh, Erie, and many other surrounding places as well as a large representation from here, numbering approximately 700.

Take These Tablets For PILES

On Money Back Plan
Never mind what caused your agonizing piles—if you've got them you've got them, so what you want to know is how to get rid of them. You've tried ointments and other things and your piles are still keeping you in misery—who not try the REAL way—the guaranteed way—the internal way?

Get a bottle of Hem-Roid from Eckerd's and New Castle Drug Co. or any real drug store—take 3 tablets a day until the bottle is finished—then if your piles haven't vanished—or nearly vanished—get your money back.

A youngster lost his temper. He had seen, more than once, his father lose his.

He spoke sharply. His father, many times, had spoken sharply to him.

He "blew up" and lost emotional control of himself. His father had that weakness, too.

He banged something down and rushed out of the room. His father sometimes did that very thing.

After a while, ashamed of himself, he came back into the room, very quiet, hoping nobody would say anything to him about his outburst.

More times than he liked to remember, his father had repeated that same routine of temper, outburst, exile and shame.

His father looked at him and had strange, dark, bewildering thoughts. "Is my son mine," thought he because he is flesh of my flesh, or because he has drawn out of me by watching, by repeating, my actions, my emotions, my ways of living?

Are we linked so closely by heredity or merely by association? Will he go on through life repeating my weakness, making my mistakes?

Could I have helped him by being different, or was his whole manner of being fixed at birth, and long before? I cannot even speak to him about these things, because now he does not know—he cannot know—just what is himself and which is the fruit of living with me.

"If what he is determined by the fact of birth, by the accidental element of my physical fatherhood, then I can do nothing to change his essential self. That's finished."

"But if the environment I set up around him is the more important part of his being, then I can help him greatly. I can set him a better example and perhaps it is not too late. He can see me acting and instinctively, whether he respects me or not, he may adopt my ways."

"It is my only chance and I must take it because this, for me, is the greatest obligation in the world."

"I do not owe him a living, but I owe him a better self, and if I can give THAT to him I have given him more than gold more than education."

"My son, for your sake, I shall fight to change myself."

He had noticed for some time that when the bottles of wine were brought in, they were not quite as full as they ought to have been and accordingly he requested the butler to do all the opening in his presence.

"I notice," he said sternly, "that when you draw the corks in the pantry the wine is exceedingly decolored."

The butler looked surprised and asked: "Extremely decolored, sir?"

"Yes," replied the baronet, more sternly still, "rather low in the neck."

POPULAR WIDOWER
"I'll share with you the memory of an old time wealthy Minnesota farmer whose wife died when he was in his early fifties. Immediately every widow in town and for miles around became very sympathetic and entreated him to 'drop in any time for a visit just as he and dear Jenny had always done.' So John dropped in and spent many an otherwise lonely hour. Soon he was dined, feted and flattered until he became as sprightly as a boy. He was told what a wonderful husband he had been to dear Jenny and what an exemplary father to his two sons. He was consulted as to how he preferred this or that cooked, how this should be done or that done and so on. His acquaintances were highly amused and chuckled not a little."

After several months, it became known that on a certain evening he was usually at widow Brown's table in the country. On one such occasion a prominent citizen of the town died suddenly from heart disease. Though John and all the widows and the deceased were highly esteemed by them they could not resist phoning to John at widow Brown's. "Hurry back, there's another widow in town, Captain Jones just died."

Mooney Trial Promises New Phase In Legal Complications

Revived Charge Based On Preparedness Tragedy In 1916 Creates Divided Opinions As To Guilt And Reliability Of Witnesses

Rated as the most widely known of prisoners, with the possible exception of Sacco and Vanzetti, the California convict, Thomas Mooney, will have a unique trial when he faces a new jury. Previously untried, the new case against him promises to attract country-wide attention, because of persistent efforts that have been made to obtain his pardon. He is serving a life term for the Preparedness Day murders in San Francisco in 1916. While acquittal would not affect the original charge, it would be expected to influence the official attitude. An important witness is dead, and there have been charges of perjury. The war psychology is now absent from the background, but there is evidence of a desire that the truth shall be upheld.

In few cases on record in America," says the CLEVELAND NEWS, "has there been so much of the flood of oratory, of pamphlets, of petitions and of editorial comment that marked the Mooney case. There is no question that public opinion has been honestly divided as to Mooney's guilt in connection with the bombing in 1916. Ten persons lost their lives and 40 were injured. Mooney was sentenced to death, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. The review of the evidence on which Governor Rolph of California recently refused to grant Mooney a pardon seemed convincing. But the arguments in behalf of the grim, gray-haired prisoner, who has languished behind the bars for 14 years, likewise convinced thousands."

Recognizing that Mooney "was a leader of radical labor on the west coast, and was known to be opposed to all that the Preparedness parade stood for," the OMAHA WORLD-NEWS yet holds that "Mooney was guilty beyond reasonable doubt, the mere facts of his past career do not justify his incarceration," and refers to the fact that "a majority of the jury that tried him thinks that the evidence was insufficient to justify the verdict."

The GLENDALE NEWS-PRESS believes that "if Mooney is innocent, his imprisonment has been a ghastly mistake, but at present belief in his innocence is far from unanimous" and points out that "the law entitles him to a full hearing even at this late date."

"Mooney's acquittal on the new charge," thinks the CHARLESTON NEWS-POST, "would of itself prove little. In the 16 years that have passed, the principal state's witness has died and much other evidence that was available to the prosecution at the first trial will not be available now. The fact that the state cannot prove its case after 16 years will not conclusively demonstrate that it did not have a case when Mooney was convicted. The district attorney admits in advance that a prosecuting officer would not be justified in asking a conviction on the evidence now available and points out the outcome of the proposed trial cannot in any way affect the sentence Mooney is now serving."

That District Attorney Brady does not protest against the procedure from prejudice against the prisoner is shown from his statement that he has repeatedly urged governors to pardon the defendant on the ground that the former conviction was unjustified.

"So strong is the showing that the defense has made," declares the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "that many influential people, not at all in sympathy with radical agitation, have been interested in furthering the fight for Mooney's vindication. They believed it to be essential to good government that even a bad citizen be fairly and impartially dealt with in the courts as one whose reputation is not under a cloud. For this reason it will be a satisfaction to lovers of government, based on reason and justice, to know that Mooney is now to have an opportunity to establish his claim of innocence."

"The case should be fully aired in the endeavor to find the facts," advises the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, with the hope that "this new trial will leave no room for doubt," while the BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD declares the need of "this belated and circuitous move."

The HAVERHILL GAZETTE sees "one noticeable lack in the preparation for the trial," explaining: "Frank Oxman, one of the principal witnesses against Mooney, is dead. Oxman was the witness who testified that he saw Mooney and Warren Billings place the suitcase containing the bombs in the path of the parade. Without Oxman's testimony Mooney could not have been convicted. After the Mooney trial and conviction, it was learned that Oxman was 90 miles away at the time the bomb exploded. That disclosure was then and is now one of the great factors in persuading millions of persons of Mooney's innocence."

Satisfaction at the new proceedings is expressed by the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL and the SCRANTON TIMES. The YOUNGS TOWN VINDICATOR recalls that "the Wickersham commission felt that Mooney was tried in such an atmosphere that he could not have been given a fair trial." On the other hand, the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION argues that, "had there been any actual miscarriage of justice in this case, it would seem that it must surely have come to light in at least one of the many reviews the case has undergone in the last 17 years."

The BALTIMORE SUN argues: "As a means of establishing the truth, this trial can do little more than establish the shakiness of such witnesses as survive and can be found. Oxman, the principal supporter of the state's case so far as the suitcase theory of the explosion is concerned, is dead. Most of the others have, at one time or another admitted lying in the original trial. Prosecutor Brady is quite right in declaring that the new trial would be absurd. But it might be useful in revealing, after this long time, the absurdity of the first one."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE CATASTROPHE

A beggar clutched at the sleeve of a benevolent looking passer-by. "Five cents, sir, for a cup of coffee?" he whined.

The other turned and surveyed him. "Why should I give you five cents?" he asked. "What brought you to this sad, unseemly plight?"

"A terrible catastrophe, sir," the beggar replied. "Two years ago, I like you, enjoyed business prosperity. I worked industriously. On the wall above my desk was my motto: 'Think Constructively. Act Decisively. Wealth poured my way. And then—and then—'"

"And then?"

"The scrub lady threw away my motto."

The Flight Over Everest

Everest, the unapproachable peak of the Himalayas, which many intrepid spirits have tried in vain to scale, has been conquered at last. The late Duca degli Abruzzi came as near as anyone to accomplishing this feat; others equally fearless have lost their lives in the attempt. But man has at last done by air what he could not do afoot. The two planes of the Houston expedition surmounted almost incredible perils. The approach from a low altitude base was over a rough country, menacing if once control of the plane were lost. The rarefied atmosphere was another danger. There could be no failure of the supply of oxygen or of the perfect functioning of the engine.

The heroic adventurers, Lord Clynchdale, Colonel Blackie and their companions, had no precedents to guide them. The peak had been seen as a centre of violent winds, driving the snow before them. Some great storm might easily have destroyed the planes. Seldom has the risk to life been as great. We shall have to wait for the development of the photographs before we know if the results justified it. Regardless of any discoveries that may have been made, however, the flight was a feat of epic proportions. Superior as nature is to man, skill and luck combined may conquer her.

Stern was the glance the coroner cast at the quick doctor who had just taken the witness stand.

"And when you were called in," he asked, "what did you give the deceased?"

"Give him? I gave him ippecuanha."

"Indeed!" sneered the coroner. "And I suppose you know that in the man's condition you might just as well have given him the aurora-borealis?"

"Quite so," was the reply. "That's exactly what I should have given him if he hadn't died."

Start Campaign For Motor Club

Seek To Increase Memberships Of Club—Many Aid In Project

SALESMEN CONFER WITH AUTO LEADER

Headed by Ned Wallace of the American Automobile Association a sales effort in behalf of the New Castle Motor Club starts today with a group of representatives covering Lawrence County, the objective being the swelling of the membership lists of the club.

All day today, the salesmen were in conference with Mr. Wallace in the Castleton during which time he outlined the plan of action, the reasons for membership, in a motor club and the data which will be used in this sales effort.

His efforts in behalf of motor clubs in other sections of the country have met with success. He is not sales promoter but a motor executive who brings home to the motorist the material advantages of a membership in a motor club. These advantages are presented to the motorist in such a way that thousands of new members have been added to clubs over the country.

Mr. Wallace will be in New Castle for about a week, and the sales effort will probably continue for two weeks.

Woman Confesses Killing Of Man At Philadelphia

"Yes I Shot Him", Woman Tells Police, Is Held On Homicide Charge

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—With an air of cynical bravado Mrs. Mary Carson today confessed to the slaying of Horace Asher, 42 a night watchman, according to police. "Yes, I shot him" police quoted her as saying. "I was tired of him and he struck me."

"Now bring on your photographers," Mrs. Carson, an unemployed telephone operator, said Asher became abusive after inviting her to his home last night. She was held on a homicide charge.

dam, while forestation work already planned can promptly be made a part of the scheme.

When plan first was revealed, the president estimated it would give employment eventually to 500,000 men.

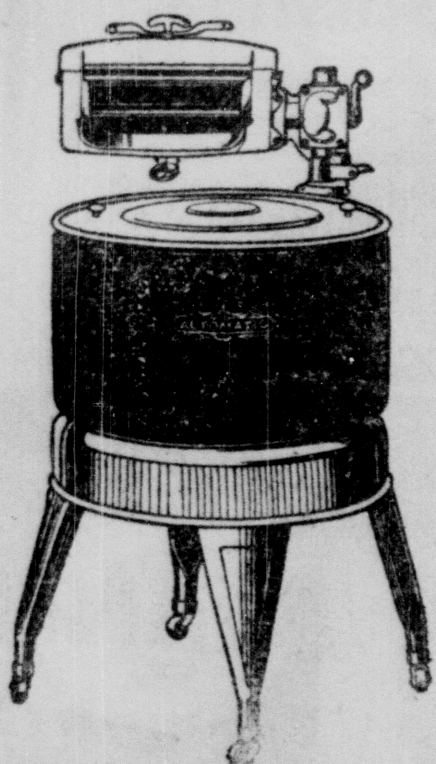

Need Planning

"Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning. Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned. But our nation has 'just grown.' It is time to extend planning to a wider field. In this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers."

"This in a true sense is a return to the spirit and vision of the pioneer. If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in the development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

As on previous occasions, Democratic leaders followed up the presidential message with the introduction of enabling legislation to carry out the president's proposals.

New Appeal For Negro Attacker Will Be Filed

Attorney For Convicted Alabama Negro Attacker Plans Protracted Fight

IS FOUND GUILTY
FOR SECOND TIME

By CARTER BROOKE JONES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

DECATUR, Ala., April 10.—Another phase of the tempestuous Scottsboro case passed into history today with the dispersal of those concerned in the trial of Haywood Patterson, youthful negro, who was found guilty of criminal assault and doomed to death yesterday for the second time.

He was one of seven hoboos who were sentenced to the electric chair at Scottsboro two years ago and granted new trials by the United States supreme court. He was the first to be retried, and his second day in court attracted international attention.

New Appeals Planned
The trials of the other six were severed, and the next, that of Charley Weems, set for one week from today, but the defense will make strenuous efforts to defer all the other retrials until the appeal of Patterson is settled—which may be a matter of two years.

The conviction of Patterson was a blow to the Scottsboro cause, but Samuel S. Leibowitz, the New York attorney who said he took over the defense without fee and did not represent any organization, announced after the verdict that the fight for the humble denizens of hobo jungles and freight trains would not abate one whit.

Attorney Aroused
"We'll carry the case back to the United States Supreme court," he said. "I'll continue this fight with my last drop of blood. These negroes were victims of insane prejudice. The verdict was against all justice and fair play and based on no credible evidence."

Attorney General Thomas E.
Knight, Jr., who headed the prosecution staff, made no statement, but obviously was pleased that Alabama had been vindicated by another jury after concerted attacks from radical organizations all over the world. He planned to press the other trials as rapidly as possible.

The jury of three farmers and nine townsmen, with a draftsman for foreman, came in at 10:57 o'clock Sunday morning, after being out since shortly before 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Only Three Ballots

The only member of the jury who would talk said there were but three ballots taken—the first showing all for conviction, the second, on the issue of punishment, 11 to 1 for the electric chair. The juror insisted that the long deliberation was concerned only with winning over the single juror who wanted to limit Patterson's punishment to life imprisonment.

The jury, which fixed the punishment at death, could have set any prison term from ten years up.
Circuit Judge James E. Horton deferred formal sentence, but the extreme penalty was made mandatory by the verdict.

COOK IS PAROLED FROM COUNTY JAIL

John Cook, who was serving a term in the county jail, in connection with the theft of a heifer in Pulaski township, was paroled by Judge R. L. Hildebrand at court this morning, having served in jail since February. The case was one in which Cook and some other men were alleged to have killed and butchered a heifer belonging to a neighbor. It was represented that Cook has a job to which he could go if released.

ness and panhandling, was given day morning, when he appeared before Mayor Charles B. Mayne.

New Castle Drug In New Location

Fine New Store Will Be Thrown Open To Public
On Tuesday Morning

FLOOR SPACE HAS BEEN DOUBLED

With all new, modern appointments and conveniences, the New Castle Drug Company will open for business in their new location at 24 North Mill street Tuesday morning, Maurice Schoenberger, proprietor, stated today.

Work of remodeling the new storeroom has been going forward for the past month and has finally been completed. Double the floor space has been afforded in the new location, and patrons of the store will find one of the finest drug stores in Pennsylvania awaiting their inspection tomorrow. Souvenirs will be given away on this occasion.

The new store is located several doors south of the former location at North and Mill streets.
Mr. Schoenberger stated that it will be the endeavor of himself and his employees to furnish even better service to his patrons than before, because of the increased facilities afforded at the new location, and they are looking forward to greeting a great number of people tomorrow.

In addition to providing much additional room for those being waited upon in the prescription and drug department, booths have been installed in conjunction with the soda fountain, providing greater convenience for patrons.

Nominations Are Made At Rotary

Designated Committee Gives Report At Noon; Cyclist
Cole Heard

After hearing its nominating committee report a slate of officers for the annual election on May 1, the city's Rotary club sat back to listen to young Jack Cole, son of Rotarian DeLace Cole, describe the thrilling bicycle trip he made to Los Angeles and back last summer. The club met in The Castleton.

"Los Angeles or Bust" was the topic of Cole's entertaining talk.
Hardly an exciting incident in his cross-country jaunt, covered in 23 days' time enroute west and 24 more enroute east, went untold.

"I'm at least convinced I broke two records," the young cyclist laughingly concluded. "One is that I wore a pair of shoes for three months without repairing them and the other is that I wore a shirt for three months without washing it."

Nominations Given
Submitted by a special nominating committee elected a week ago, the 1933-34 officers' slate was as follows:

For president—Ralph Bolsinger
For vice president—R. A. Eckles
For secretary—Carl E. Paisley
For treasurer—Frank A. Schultz
For directors—Dr. C. C. Green, Ray Tannehill and Charles H. Andrews.
(Three are to be named.)
Rotarians Fred L. Rentz, Howard
B. Richards and J. Lee McFate, all past presidents, comprised the committee which drafted the slate.

Mahoning Grange To Receive Gavel

Interesting Program Will Be Presented In Grange Hall
Tuesday Evening

The Mahoning Valley Grange will have an interesting meeting Tuesday evening in the Grange Hall when the Westfield Grange brings the traveling gavel to the Mahoning Grange.

The lecturer, Helen Jane Martin, has arranged a program in which the Westfield Grange will have a part.

The gavel will be taken by the Mahoning Grange next Tuesday evening to the New Bedford Grange.

"Airing" His Side

Seeking the backing of the people of the State in his fight for non-political control of the beer traffic, Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York is shown as he made a radio broadcast, giving his side of the controversy, from the Executive Mansion at Albany. The Governor charged that the G. O. P. legislative leaders seek to give control of the beer trade to local boards motivated solely by political aims.

Arrest Six For Failure To Have Cars Tested

State Highway patrolmen here do not propose to let down on their campaign to find out how many persons are operating uninspected motor vehicles in this district.
Six operators were apprehended
Saturday night while operating uninspected cars on the Highland Heights improved road which leads to New Wilmington.

Patrolmen also visited the Harlandsburg, New Bedford, Ellwood, Edenburg and other roads. They have shown they are very much on the job.

At least 30 arrests have been paid.
The fine is set by state law and is $10.00.

The compulsory inspection of cars provision was put in the motor code to bring about less accidents and has accomplished that purpose.

Cars should have been inspected during the first three months of the year according to Corporal L. J.
Lawton and the campaign to apprehend those who failed to have the cars tested is now in full blast.

In case a car has been in the garage and not been inspected, it must be towed to an inspection station.

Mrs. F. B. Harlan Sustains Injuries

Local Woman Thrown From Machine She Was Riding In Enroute To Cleveland; Injured

Friends here will regret to learn that Mrs. F. B. Harlan of Sheridan avenue sustained serious injuries when she met with an accident on Friday, enroute to Cleveland, O., with her husband.

The door of the machine on the side Mrs. Harlan was sitting, was jarred open and when making a bend she was thrown against it and onto the pavement. Being taken to the home of friends there, and a physician summoned, it was found necessary to take several stitches in her head. Also, one knee was badly injured.

She is now at her home here and will be confined to bed for sometime.

HEALTH OF CATTLE INVOLVED IN SUIT

The case of W. C. Strohecker against Joseph C. Mulcahy and Margaret E. Mulcahy, is on trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand at court today. The case is one growing out of a farm deal in which some cattle were involved. There is a dispute as to the health of the cattle, the plaintiff claiming that some of them were afflicted with an ailment that impaired their value, and the defendant denying it.

Shaw Is Curious About Reception In New York City

By DAVID F. SENTNER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

ABOARD S. S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, AT SEA, April 10.—The legendary, whipsnapping George Bernard Shaw, enroute to New York to deliver a lecture "Settling the Affairs of the World," revealed himself today as a kindly, whimsical, aged gentleman distressed by the cruel pibes his critics have hurled at him.

"I've shot my bolt," he declared sorrowfully in an interview with International News Service. "However, I expect to write 30 more volumes before I lay down my pen for good."

"I am a dentist pulling the teeth of the world. When I started preaching there was universal pyr-rhea." Nobody likes to have their teeth pulled, but they feel much better afterward.

"I have put in my witticism for laughing gas, and I think I have been useful."

Then, gazing out to sea with wistful eyes, the veteran dramatist dismissed with a wave of his hand the fact that he had been misquoted by reporters pledged to write truthful interviews. When a remark was made about this he merely smiled and said:

"Don't bother."

He admitted he was both curious and timorous concerning his reception in New York, but declared he was adamant in his refusal to interview ship news reporters upon his arrival. He said he feared such an ordal would fatigue him, taking the edge off his address at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Books Politically.
Suddenly brightening, Shaw reiterated his contention that Americans are "boobs politically," but added:
"Americans are interesting, and other nationals are also boobs about politics."

But it's strange how you can get a rise from Americans. If I tell them they have only two legs, they bristle up, thinking I mean Europeans have three legs.

"If they were civilized, Americans would merely ask me how many legs I have."

Advises Youngsters.
"Until recently," Shaw continued,
"Americans have copied Europe, but they now have the beginnings of a genuine American originality in art, literature and the drama. Young Americans come to London to get away from the U. S. A. and ask me where to study. I advise them to go back to the U. S. A. and stay there."

"America contains great cultural possibilities outside its industrial life."

Asked whether he would ever return to America for a more leisurely visit, Shaw replied sadly:
"The insurance company statistics are against it you see; I am 77 years old."

Keeps Speech Secret

The famous critic is keeping the subject of his New York address a deep secret and insists that he shall not be disturbed while working on his speech. He thinks he will be in excellent physical condition for the ordeal and keeps to his routine aboard ship of a swim in the pool and a round of calisthenics at seven
a. m. every day.

He also holds the deck-walking record, and for these promenades he wears a khaki ear-muff cap. A beauty parlor aboard ship supplies a protective lotion for his tender skin against sun and wind.

He usually appears collarless in the daytime, but wears formal dress in the evening, when he precedes his wife into the dining room, and he insists that Americans are more conventional about dress than Britons.

Gymanfa Ganu Surpasses All Expectations

Hundreds Of People From Eastern Ohio And Western Pennsylvania Attend Event

A crowd of unprecedented proportions from neighboring cities of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, thronged the South Side district Sunday afternoon and evening for the purpose of attending the third annual Gymanfa Ganu held in the First Congregational church on East Reynolds street.

Large numbers of people were included from Marlin's Ferry, O., Chester, West Va., Wirtton, and Follansbee, West Va., Steubenville, O., Pittsburgh, Aliquippa, Wampum, Youngstown, Niles, Warren, Cleveland, Canton, Massillon and Ellwood City. Special busses and dozens of private cars were in evidence in the vicinity of the church throughout the afternoon and evening.

The afternoon session got under way at 2:30 o'clock and was well attended, practically every seat being taken and at seven o'clock, the time for the opening of the evening session, scores were standing in every available bit of space.

Councilman D. O. Davies acted as chairman of the day. Rev. C. S. Joshua had charge of the devotionals in the afternoon and Rev. Thomas Francis in the evening. Rev. Rees T. Williams, pastor of the festival church, spoke briefly but forcibly at the evening session on "The Power of Song," and told of its effect on the individual. Much praise is due Mrs. Mary Hopkins Evans for her splendid work during the day as accompanist, not only for soloists but also with the special number "Worthy Is The Lamb." Daniel Heitger at the piano was also most helpful with the mass singing and as accompanist of the Book-Leyde Quartet, which rendered two special selections.

Rapid Reese, chorister at the Reformed Presbyterian church, and David Lewis, chorister at the Central Christian church, sang in their usual delightful manner. While Harry Jones, boy soprano, Miss Cecilia Hughes, contralto, both members of the host church, delighted the great audience with their solo work. Grif Thomas, chorister, led the mass singing during the day. This feature was the outstanding part of the program and the congregational singing, from all reports, was of a high standard and seldom excelled in any community of this size.

The combined choruses of the First Congregational church, this city, and that of the Elm Street Baptist church of Youngstown sang "Worthy Is The Lamb." Prof. John Hughes Jones, director of singing in the Youngstown public schools, was invited to lead the anthem, which he did in his usual masterly style.

The day as a whole was a complete success. Wonderful weather, an unparalleled crowd and a heart and voice to sing praises to God as the Welsh people are accustomed to do, making it a day long to be remembered. A number of similar events are scheduled to be held in various nearby cities in the next few months.

THREATEN VIOLENCE FOR CHICAGO BEER CONTROL

Chicago Gangs Seek Control Of Legalized Beer

Federal Authorities Go Into Action To Thwart Efforts Of Racketeers

CAPONE GANG IS REPORTED ACTIVE

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 10.—Information that the gang of Al Capone has definitely "muscled" its way into the profitable new beer business sent federal authorities into action today to halt encroachments of organized gangs still engaged in dispensing hard liquor.

Learning that surviving members of the Capone gang had divided the city into territories for the sale of beer by threats of violence, federal authorities laid plans to act against hi jackers and racketeers through prosecution under interstate commerce and internal revenue laws.

Campaign Begins
United States District Attorney Dwight Green announced that the federal campaign has begun.

Two veteran agents of the Capone syndicate, Hymie Levine and Harry Cusack, have taken over the beer distribution rights in the lucrative downtown speakeasy area, the state's attorney's office learned. Other south and west side districts have fallen under the control of Danny Stanton, Joe Fusco and Sammy Cusack, state's attorney Thomas Courtney learned.

Persuasive violence over the week end in the gangland drive for control of the beer profits included two hi-jackings and a bomb which damaged the Prima Brewing Company plant.

Guest In Auto Is Plaintiff In Suit

Mrs. Sarah Campbell Injured While Riding With Granddaughter, Nellie Humphrey

The case of W. J. Campbell and Sarah Bell Campbell of the seventh ward, against Nellie Humphrey, was taken up for trial before Judge James A. Chambers at court this morning. The case is one growing out of an automobile accident to Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. Campbell is 74 years of age. The defendant is her granddaughter, and also lives in the seventh ward. In September 1930 Miss Humphrey borrowed an automobile and, taking her grandmother, drove to Slippery Rock to make arrangements to attend Slippery Rock college.

On the witness stand Mrs. Campbell was unable to tell anything about the accident. She said that the last thing that she could remember she was in a drug store in Slippery Rock. The next thing she knew she awakened in the Jamison Memorial hospital, the next day.

She had no recollection of getting into the automobile to come home or of how the accident happened. Other testimony showed that when a short distance out of Slippery Rock Miss Humphrey had lost control of the automobile. It left the road, and struck a telephone pole. She said that she was driving the car with the owner's consent.

Man Arrested As He Robs Window

Caught By The Police Immediately Following The Smashing Of Jewelry Store Window

Two members of the police force were standing in a nearby store entrance at 3:45 a. m., today, when they heard a window crash a short distance away and rushed to the scene. They found a man reaching through a hole about ten inches square, which he had just made in the window of the jewelry store of L. M. Buchanan. They found two ladies rings valued at about $40 in his possession. They also found two stones in the window, which he had used in breaking the window.

He gave his name as Frederick John Venturo and his address as No. 2 Matland street. He was taken before Alderman James P. Brice this morning, where Chief of Police John P. Haven made charges of breaking and entering and larceny against him. He entered pleas of guilty to the charges and was held for the June term of court.

Since 1925 from 1500 to 2,000 pheasants, principally females, were killed by automobiles each year.

Slippery Rock 'Y' Hut To Be Open Wednesday

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., April 10.—It took five years to build this hut but every year's delay meant saving of more money. As a result the Slippery Rock State Teachers College has a $20,000 building for approximately $6,000. Wednesday will mark its formal opening and all the students and teachers of the college and their friends are invited.

Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, president of the college started the plans about five years ago that have resulted in this building. It not only has recreational and social facilities that any large college would be envious of, but it also has a large assembly room where group meetings of a religious and educational character may be held. From the first it was an economy project. Dr. Eisenberg noticed that the chestnut trees in the college woods were beginning to die, he had them cut into lumber for the hut. Workmen from the college helped in the construction, especially in the furnishings. Faculty members were interested in the building and money to help pay for the furnishings was raised by their subscriptions. The Y. M. C. A. staged a minstrel show that helped too.

Walter T. Elder, teacher of industrial arts in the school, in a way contributed most to the economy program. He not only supervised the making of the ping-pong and checker tables that are a part of the recreational equipment, but was also largely responsible for the buying of nearly $12,000 worth of bowling and pool equipment for about $700. The hut is open to all the men of the college. It is supervised by the Y. M. C. A. and the opening will be sponsored by that club. The members who have charge of escorting visitors around the hut, which will be open for inspection between three and eight p. m. are: Donald Gibson, president of the Y. M. C. A.; Gracie, Charles Cottrell, Loyal Lick, Donald Rice, James Hosack, Michael Wargo, Ellsworth Kunkle, Floyd Beck, Paul Stone, Elmer Lewis and Paul Varum.

Musicians Leave For Erie Early Tomorrow

Northwestern Counties To Send Artists For District Contest

CITY, COUNTY WILL ENTER CONTESTANTS

With a month or more of diligent classroom and public rehearsal concluded, Lawrence county's entrants in the annual northwestern Pennsylvania interscholastic music contest today were ready to board private autos early Tuesday for a ride to Erie, where a host of student artists, representing five other counties in this quarter of the state, will compete for the district honors before a retinue of renowned judges all day long.

The senior high school here will send a delegation of nearly 35 musicians, led by their supervisors, Miss Gladys Rich and Joseph R. Replogle.

From the county districts will go the winners in a county-wide competition held at New Wilmington a week ago. Several of the consolidated buildings are eligible to take part. Unlike in past years, the district contestants will travel to the contest city in private parties and not aboard a special train. Economic conditions, school officials agreed, would not justify chartering one.

Contests Are 'Academy'
Arriving in Erie school parties will be welcomed by Erie students and escorted to the headquarters of the contest, the Academy high school. From there they will go to the schools where contests have been planned.

Morning and afternoon and evening events are scheduled, it is announced, but New Castle's group and the county's, too, should arrive back home late tomorrow evening.

The popular band and orchestra of Ne-Ca-Hi will be conspicuous by their absence this year, since the stiffest competition for other class A bands and orchestras came largely from the local musical groups in recent contests. In many of them the band and orchestra triumphed. A decision not to send them was reached after a consideration of the expense which their entry would involve.

However, representatives of both band and orchestra will be in tomorrow's delegation, participating in ensemble events, chorus meets or in solo numbers.

District winners will compete in a state-wide meet at Sunbury, Pa., April 28 and 29.

Germany Cements Relationship In Vatican Circles

Vice Chancellor Von Papen Goes To Vatican And Confers With Cardinal Pacelli

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, April 10.—An assurance of amity between the German government and the Vatican was given to Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany today in an interview with Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Von Papen, who insists he is in Italy only for a "sightseeing tour", spent an hour at the Vatican with the cardinal.

When the interview was over a semi-official spokesman declared the Vatican appreciated Germany's initiative in sending her vice chancellor here. He expressed belief the trip would result favorably with regard to relations between Germany and the Holy See.

Will Visit Pope
The question of Nazi persecution of Jews in Germany was not touched upon in the conversation. It was authoritatively stated, but will be brought up when Von Papen is received later in audience by Pope Pius.

Problem directly affecting diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the Reich government, and details of the proposed concordat, between the Holy See and Berlin were considered. In this connection the German vice chancellor outlined to Cardinal Pacelli steps taken by the Hitler government in its campaign to exterminate communism in Germany.

Von Papen himself declined to discuss the Jewish question.

"It is clouded with too much misunderstanding," he told International News Service.

Baseball Teams Ready To Open Up 1933 Season

Season Will Start Wednesday With Pirates And Yankees Favored To Win

MOST OF TEAMS ARE STRONGER

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 10.—It's all over now but the bluster and uproar of opening day, with its touch of pagantry and strident color and the old bromide having something to do with mortality among grandmothers.

The spring training thing is out of the way. So are those necessary antics in connection with the exhibition game. Sixteen major league ball clubs are on the scene with nothing to do but wait for Wednesday's opening and the moment when illusion vanishes and reality begins.

Yanks Favored
By this time next week, we'll know a few things we may vaguely suspect now. But today, they're all equal, at least technically or theoretically. However, the price-makers, who are neither technical nor theoretical, have introduced a practical note by making the world's champion Yankees a 2 to 5 choice in the American league, the shortest price of the last twenty years. Jack Doyle is the man who stands behind these figures. Mr. Doyle may even stand away behind these figures if the Yanks don't win.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are 2 to 1 in the National league, with the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals at 2-1, according to the last quotations from Tom Kearney out in St. Louis.

The Pirates are something of a general choice in all books but it's almost anybody's foot race and you can figure almost anybody to win, except maybe the Braves and Reds. This pair is held at 15 and 20 to 1 respectively, with the Dodgers and Phillies at 6 and Giants at 3. That's hardly a lavish price against an outfit so unbalanced that you could shoot a cannon through the club house without hitting a pitcher.

Cards Lack Balance
There is an equal lack of balance with the Cards, who lose Gelbert for the season and probably won't get ten cents on the dollar out of Hornsby. As for the Cubs, the beating they took from the Yankees last October, plus the loss of Cuyler and the encroaching lack of Mr. Charles Grimm make them look like a club that is about to subside, gracefully and with abrupt finality. You have to like the Cardinals' pitching, of course, but there's one thing to be said about that. Mr. Street may have eight good pitchers but he can only pitch one at a time.

That price of Mr. Doyle's against the Yankees may yet arise to mock his peace of mind and deride his dreams. The New York club has the pitching and the power but the defense that stayed with it for one final fling at the pennant and world's championship last year is about to falter and lose its stride. Ruth is really at or near the end of this time. Sewell is not far away. As for Combs, he has been chasing over the outfield so much of recent years that his legs have started to buckle and his shoes are practically spats.

Athletics Look Good
Altogether, the Yanks barely look good for another year, if that. For one thing, the Athletics have great pitching again and that juvenile outfield of Mr. Cornelius Mack's seem to be no figment of a doddering imagination. For another, the entire league is stronger, with the Senators having a real chance and most of the others at least a look in.

In speaking of increased strength, we can note an exception in the case of the Indians. They apparently are no better and I should say it is worth mentioning that for four years they haven't been quite good enough.

Umpires To Meet At "Y" Tonight
The Lawrence County Umpire's Association will hold an important meeting tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock, according to an announcement by Mike Babovsky, secretary of the association today.

All league managers and officials are asked to meet with the umpires tonight, also Arnold "Fiz" Fraser president of the New Castle Mueball league is asked to attend the meeting. Plans for the coming baseball season will be discussed and a program mapped out for the umpires.

NOTE TO MANAGERS
Baseball and mueball games will soon start. Before managers submit reports they should be sure the reports are marked properly. If it is a report of a mueball game, write "Mueball game" on the report and if it is a baseball report write "baseball game." This permits the sports staff to properly rewrite the game. All reports must be in the office of The News the same day the game is played.—Sports Editor.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Managers of baseball teams can rest assured they will have good fields this season as director of streets and improvements Stanley Thayer has promised to cooperate. Last season the city councilman directed that whenever possible diamonds be scraped and rolled. As a result there were some nice diamonds. A few days ago he informed the writer that he would be glad to give his cooperation this year. In some instances managers have asked for permission to use equipment and they would furnish the man-power.

No doubt Robert Latera is all het up over Jack Kearns kayo of George Pirring of Homestead. The West Virginia mountaineer turned the trick in the second round. It was his first fight at Pittsburgh. Prohibitionists are he will get a second bid. Anytime a fighter wins by a knockout he can feel quite certain he will receive a second fight.

Carm Sacco has received a communication from O & P league sponsors who want to know if any New Castle men would be interested in taking out a franchise in the league. If there are they can telephone to Saco.

"We must not forget that when he was an able-bodied player he gave us all he had and even when suffering from injuries he was willing to play under such a handicap," said an official after tending Del Bissonette, injured first baseman, a Brooklyn 1933 contract. He won't be of much use to the Dodgers but it is refreshing to hear that Del hasn't been forgotten.

Pittsburgh Pirates have sent Charley Wood, southpaw hurler to Kansas City, managed by Tris Speaker.

Frank Parker, 18, New Orleans, beat George Lott, Chicago veteran, 7-5, 10-12, 6-2 to win the Houston, Texas, Tex. Invitation net singles title.

Dusty Mills is back with Tris Speaker on the Kansas City club. The former Indian hurled five innings against the Pirates yesterday.

Argentina won the South American zone championship of Davis Cup competition by beating Chile, 3-0, at Buenos Aires.

Condition of Danny Devlin who suffered a broken jaw in a bout with Joe Randall is reported good by Pittsburgh hospital attaches.

Will Liquidate Harriman Bank Woodin Asserts

Payment In Full To Depositors Announced By Secretary Of Treasury

WOODIN GOES TO NEW YORK

(International News Service) NEW YORK, April 10.—Plans for the liquidation of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, with payment in full to all depositors, was announced today by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, following a surprise night conference here.

The Harriman Bank, which remained closed and under the direction of a federal conservator since the conclusion of the National Bank holiday early in March, will be liquidated by the Manufacturers Trust company, acting for the federal treasury, Woodin announced.

He affirmed his belief that the assets of the closed bank would be adequate to cover the liabilities.

Woodin On Scene

The announcement that a way had been found to clear up the affairs of the Harriman Bank and make all deposits there available to depositors was made only a few hours before Joseph W. Harriman, former president and chairman of the board of the bank, was called upon to enter his plea to an indictment found by a federal grand jury last week charging him with making false entries in the bank's books.

Woodin arrived here yesterday unannounced and went into immediate conference with George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust company; Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House Association; Harry E. Cooper, federal conservator of the Harriman Bank, and other clearing house officials. The conference had been in progress several hours before it became generally known that Woodin was here.

Secrecy concerning his visit was maintained, it was understood, at the request of President Roosevelt and Attorney General Cummings, who have kept in close contact with U. S. Attorney Medalle, actively in charge of the investigation of the Harriman Bank.

It isn't every police station has its "hot seat." Fact is no police station as a rule has such a spot, with the exception of the New Castle police department. All the comforts of a well kept jail, with now the addition of a "hot seat."

Out in the patrol barn there is a comfortable looking leather upholstered seat, inviting the weary to sit down and rest. And the cops are hospitable that way. They will invite you to sit down anytime. As you sit down its feels though you had sat flush on a bed of needles, each one of which had been pre-needled.

Reminds you of your grandmother's old horsehair sofa, magnified a thousand times or more. And the comfortable looking seat isn't getting nearly the play it did.

It looked like old times in the First Congregational Church Sunday night. It sounded like the old times. It was old times, for all the time hymns vary none at all with the years. The church was full to the last inch of capacity. From wall to wall it was packed and somehow it seemed that we had never heard such congregational singing as they had down there yesterday and last night.

The occasion was a Gynanfa Gynu, which is merely the Welsh way of expressing a Singing Festival. That's the entire program of the day, singing, choruses, solos, duets and quartets most of them religious numbers and all of them sung with a zest and feeling that is found but little in other nationalities.

As an expression of mass harmony, yesterday's Gynanfa Gynu was remarkable. The very beams seemed to swell with the volume of it all and those fortunate enough to get in and get a seat heard something.

Several hundred came from out of town. Steubenville and Pottsville sent up a special bus. Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Niles, Warren, Allegheny, all of them were well represented.

For the past three years Wampum District of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association has been keeping an average attendance of the schools of the district, according to report of the president, Paul Coulter.

This district has shown an encouraging increase from year to year, as the average attendance in 1930 was 468, in 1931, 539, and in 1932, 621.

Mr. Coulter states that they are planning on an even greater increase for the year 1933.

Efforts are being made to secure a copy of the disability reductions authorized by President Roosevelt for presentation at the meeting tonight. All men who served in the world war are eligible for the meeting.

Season highly with salt and pepper and a dash of celery seed. Mix with the mushrooms and cool before spreading on the slices of bread.
